ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS REWARD.

RANAWAY from the subscriber on the 29th of October last, a negro man slave named about 20 years of age, five feet nine inches high straight limbed and well formed; said slave hath an impediment in his speech which prevents his readily replying to a question. He commonly wears ear-rings. He took with him a variety of good clothing, a description of which is unnecessary, as it is probable he has changed them. He has been frequently seen about town since he absconded, and in all probability is now secreted by his mother, Winney Brown, formerly the slave of Mr. John Muir, late of this town, but now said to be free. The above reward will be paid for securing said Negro BOB, in any goal, and a further reward of Ten Dollars for the discovery of those who have been accessary to his concealment.

Captain's of vessels, &c. are forwarned at their peril, not to take him away.

Documents

Accompanying the Report of the Committee appointed to enquire into the official conduct of SAMUEL CHASE and RICHARD PETERS.

John Campbell's deposition.

J. Campbell appeared before the committee appointed to enquire into the judicial conduct of Samuel Chase, one of the judges of the supreme court of the United States, and Richard Peters, district judge for the district of Pennsylvania, and made oath, that he was one of the grand jury summoned to attend the circuit court of the United States, for the district of Maryland, on the first Monday in May last, and was appointed by the court the Foreman of the said jury—That a charge was delivered to the grand jury by judge Chase, a part of which he (the deponent) hath since seen and read in the National Intelligencer, published on Friday, the fifth of August, 1803, and extracted from the Anti-Democrat, edited in Baltimore, and that the said extract, to the best of the deponent's recollection, is a true copy as far as it goes, of the charge delivered by the aforesaid judge to the grand jury—This deponent being asked by the committee, whether he recollects, the judge's having recommended to the jury, to use their exertions when they returned to their homes, and at the approaching election, to prevent the passage of the law for altering the judicial system of Maryland—answers, that he has not a perfect recollection of the words used by the judge in that part of his charge—but believes that judge Chase expressed a hope that the jury would consider the effects of the proposed law, in the same manner that he did, and if so, that they would exert themselves in convincing the people, that the law would be pernicious, and ought not to be passed.

J. CAMPBELL.

January 17th, 1804.

DEPOSITION OF JONATHAN SNOWDEN.

Friday, 3d February, 1804.

The committee met—Jonathan Snowden sworn—He deposed as follows:

I was accidentally in company (in the public room at Stelle's hotel some time during the sitting of the supreme court last winter) with Mr. chief justice Marshall, judge Washington and judge Chase. The publications of Callender against the character of the President of the United States (Mr. Jefferson) and certain letters which purported to be written by Mr. Jefferson to Callender, became the subject of conversation—and judge Washington said to judge Chase, "Mr. Chase, if you had known this, you would scarcely have fined Callender so high at Richmond," or words to that effect. When Mr. Chase replied, "to tell you the truth if I had known then as much as I do now, I should not have fined him so high."

JONATHAN SNOWDEN.

Questioned by the Chairman.

This conversation was probably of a jocular nature. Did it appear so to you?

Answer. Judge Chase appeared to me, to be as much in earnest, as any one that I ever saw. The conversation commenced with him, in consequence of a late publication in the Richmond Recorder. The other gentleman might not have been serious. Mr. Washington put the question as if to draw forth Mr. Chase's opinion. I was struck with the conversation, and mentioned it the next day, if I did not that night, as a very extraordinary expression from a judge.

Question. Were there any other persons in the room?

Answer. Nobody, I think, but the three judges and myself. I am very sure there was nobody else.

Sworn to before me, this 2d day of February, 1804.

JOHN RANDOLPH,
Chairman.

Interrogatories exhibited on the part of the House of Representatives to George Read, esquire, United States attorney for the district of Deleware, and Robert Hamilton, esquire, late marshal of the said district, in the matter depending before the committee of the House of Representatives instituted to enquire into the official conduct of Samuel Chase and Richard Peters, esquires or either of them.

1. Were you present at a circuit court of the United States holden at New Castle, in the month of June, 1799 or 1800, in and for the district of Delaware, before Samuel Chase, one of the judges of the supreme court of the United States, and G. Bedford, district judge of the U. States for Delaware?

2. Were you present when the grand jury, after having received a charge from the said Samuel Chase, retired to their room, and also when they returned to the bar of the court?

3. Did the said grand jury, thro' their foreman, upon being asked by the clerk of the said court, whether they had any bills of indictment, or presentments to deliver to the said court, answer that they had not?

4. Did the said Samuel Chase, then and there, in your hearing, observe to the said grand jury, "That he had understood that there was a great deal of sedition in that state; that there was a very seditious printer, who resided in the town of Wilmington, and whose name was"—(but checking himself, said)—"perhaps it might be going too far to mention his name," or words to that effect, or what other words did he use on that subject?

5. Did the said Samuel Chase then and there further observe that he would not consent to discharge the grand jury on that day, although solicited by several so to do; and did he direct them to attend on the next day, for the purpose of examining a file of papers published by the said printer?

6. Did he also order the said district attorney to procure a file of the said papers, to be laid before the said grand jury, and were they procured by him and laid before them?

7. Did the said grand jury, on the next day, return into court after having examined a file of the said papers, without any bill or presentment, and were they then discharged by the court?

8. Do you know any thing further relative to the conduct of the said S. Chase, or do you recollect any conversation on the same subject which took place in open court between the said Samuel Chase and the said grand jury, or the said district attorney, or either of them?

9. Relate the same fully and at large, as if you were thereunto particularly interrogated.

10. Did the said Samuel Chase (at any time) express his surprise at the conduct of the said grand jury, and observe that whilst in the federal state of Delaware he could not get a seditious printer indicted, in Virginia he could not only get them indicted, but convicted and punished, or words to that effect?

JOHN RANDOLPH,
Chairman of the Committee.

(To be continued.)

Late Foreign Intelligence.

BOSTON March 7.

By the Baltick, Captain Brown, who arrived on Wednesday in 28 days, and the Packet, capt. Trott, in nineteen days from Liverpool, we have received London files to the 8th February.

At a time like the present, when the fate of nations is depending on events, which by report were supposed ripe for execution, expectation is naturally raised to the highest pitch on the announciation of arrivals from the theatre of War. But the present accounts, like those received for months, are barren of almost every incident, except the minutiæ of preparation for assault on the one hand, and defence on the other. Much of the English papers have been occupied with speculations on the nature of their Volunteer establishments if they deserve the name of establishments. The nation begins to experience what was a very serious subject of complaint at the commencement of our Revolution in America, among the provincial Volunteers: that men not organized on the principles of a regular army, cannot be subject to that discipline and subordination essential to render troops efficient in proportion to their numbers. Some improvements are desired and contemplated with a view to effect among the militia associations an organization more nearly resembling that of the regular army. These improvements are rated by the embecility and listless irresolution which characterize the administration of Mr. Addington, and which are now causes of much complaint and alarm in the nation. All are united in a wish to support the Government and defend the country: but the most patriotic dispositions require the aid of system, to merit confidence.

From a perusal of the files before us, we are enabled to present our readers with a journal of minor incidents and remarks, beginning early in January.

(Repertory.)

London, Jan. 10.

Information is received that Admiral Cornwallis, six days since, was off Brest, in the Ville de Paris of 110 guns, with a squadron.—That the idea of an expedition from Holland before the Spring, was ostensibly given up, and that a part of the French troops had marched from the coast. This was, however, conjectured to be a manœuvre to conceal their real destination. A Russian Army, assembling on the Polish frontiers, is to be 80,000 strong.

January 11.

Bonaparte left Paris on the 30th of Dec. he is expected at Flushing. Reports from Constantinople mention great alarms in the City, on account of the approach of two rebel Pachas, and a confederacy in the Capital. The rebels retreated on the approach of the Janissaries, and the mal contents concealed themselves. Violent gales in the channel on the 8th inst. A writer proposes shutting up Boulogne, by sinking half a dozen large old ships in the mouth of the harbour.

January 12.

Accounts confirm the dangers which threaten the Ottoman Power, and represent the disease of insurrection as having fixed upon the vitals of the Empire.

The bank has stamped their dollars with the king's head, and proposes to receive them at 5s. in order to prevent their being melted down, and with a view to bring them into circulation.

Yesterday, sometimes, and this morning from day light until noon, an incessant cannonade has been heard in the direction of Boulogne. Result unknown. Large numbers of Light Horse parade the coast every night.

January 13.

Accounts from France, state that great disorder and dissatisfaction prevail among the French troops at Boulogne. A letter from China, of a recent date, says, that the Emperor of China is about to address the Emperor of Russia, in consequence of the Russian troops disturbing his dominions; and that immense presents are prepared to attend the address.

A large number of Caravans for the speedy transportation of troops, provisions, &c. constructed by order of government have been sent to different parts of the sea coast.

January 14.

Bonaparte arrived at Bologne the next day after he left Paris, his object appears to be the acceleration of the preparations. Troops are hastening from all parts of France to the coast. Large quantities of provisions are accumulating. The firing lately heard was from the batteries of Boulogne, cannonading our cruizers, which however, have received but slight injuries. Admiral Cornwallis remains with 13 sail of the line off Brest. The enemy remain quiet in their harbors. Paris accounts state that the King of Spain was struck with an apoplectic fit on the 9th of December, and that he remains dangerously ill. Arrived a rich Batavian East Indiaman valued at £. 100,000, prize to the May Flower, privateer. Likewise a French sloop transport, and a vessel from Shiedham, with gin—prizes.

January 16.

Accounts have been received from Admiral Sir J. Saumerez, announcing the capture of above twenty of the enemy's vessels, chiefly coasters. A French Lieutenant, De Vaisseau, lately taken, informs, that the naval part of the expedition are averse to the project of invasion, knowing the insecurity of the crazy vessels in which they are to embark. Reports of an inevitable rupture with Spain and Portugal. A riot took place at Chester, lately on account of the impressment of one of the Volunteers, who had been a seaman; the disturbance continued for several days.

January 17.

A gentleman from Amsterdam, January 16—brought intelligence that the embarkation of the troops had commenced at Flushing—that the Dutch are opposed to the plans of the Consul, but dare not resist. He states the number of Dutch troops to be employed in the expedition to be 9000. The officers appointed by the French. Letters from Gibraltar makes grievous complaints of the licence which the French privateers enjoy in the Spanish ports, from which they sally forth and commit depredations on our trade. The emperor of China has issued a proclamation strictly forbiding all Frenchmen from being found in arms; and if any such are taken in the rebel army, they are to be put to death immediately. The Peishwa is stated to have ceded to the company a territory yielding sixty lacs of rupees annually, in payment of the subsidiary force afforded by the British government, to reinstate and maintain him on the musnud.

January 18.

A Capt. of a French transport states the number of gun boats in Boulogne to be 500. A convention was signed between the 6th and 20th of December between the governments of France and Portugal, by which the latter is to pay seventeen millions of francs, as the price of neutrality. An individual repeats the proposition of sinking large ships in the entrance of the harbor of Boulogne, and offers as an inducement, the inconvenience which had been sustained by the sinking the Royal George in the harbor of Portsmouth.

January 19.

It is a most honorable fact, that after the rest of our fleet were blown off Brest by the tremendous gale of the 25th Dec. the harbor of Brest was blockaded by a single British 74. Eastware bay, near Dover, which has hitherto been considered as accessible to an invading foe is now put into a good state of defence. Immense labour has been bestowed in fortifying this part of the coast.

January 20.

The First Consul returned to Paris on the 6th inst. without visiting Holland. An article from Boulogne states the arrival of 100 additional sail belonging to the war flotilla and flotilla of transports. There are said to be between 30,000 and 40,000 troops at Breft ready for embarkation; and at Boulogne 130,000 and 750 gun boats.

January 21.

By accounts from Semlin, dated December 2, it appears that Ali has not been so fortunate against the rebels as he was at the Ottoman Court. He has made a second attack upon them which has proved as unsuccessful as the former. It is said that he left 350 dead on the scene of action.—Notwithstanding Lord Hawkesbury's letters, prohibiting vessels coming from Holland under neutral colours, from entering an English port except Yarmouth and the Downs, numbers of ships Dutch in reality, but carrying the colours of other nations, arrive in the Thames, every day from Rotterdam, and other Dutch ports direct, and unload even at our Custom-house. It appears that Lord Nelson kept his station off Toulon during the most tempestuous weather ever experienced in the Mediterranean.

January 23.

Falmouth letters announce another tremendous gale of wind. Nothing was heard during the continuance of it, but signal guns of distress. Much damage has been sustained. Reports of a speedy rupture with Spain prevail with increased confidence. A private letter from Madrid states, that as soon as the galleons had arrived, Spain began to arm. The state of Holland is represented to be truly distressing. The rich are in perpetual dread of the most vexatious exactions; the middling ranks have been reduced to poverty; and the lower classes have no other means of obtaining a scant subsistence, but by enlisting into the army or navy.

A proclamation has been printed by the French, addressed to the people of England, promising protection of lives and property! threatening destruction to a few families, and to those who are found in arms to oppose them!

The gun boats, brigs, &c. in Boulogne are now stated to amount to no more than 150, and the military force much less than has been represented.

The Emperor of Russia offers as a reason for his new levy of troops, the agitated state of Europe.

January 24.

Suspicions of Spain acquire strength. The funds rise! Defensive works along the coast near Cork are going on rapidly under Sir C. Holloway's inspection; from 5 to 6 hundred workmen are employed on them daily. It is not easy to guess the motives that dictated Bonaparte's last journey to Bologne, he preserved a sullen silence. His intentions are kept a profound secret.

January 25.

Our Squadron has, for these three or four days been forced to return to the Downs, owing to tempestuous weather. At noon yesterday a heavy firing was heard at Deal, in a S. S. E. direction; at four a signal was made of the enemy's flotilla being in motion from Boulogne. Signals were immediately made to our ships, and they worked out of the Downs, with every inch of canvass spread.

January 26.

Arrived the Cumberland 74 from Jamaica announcing the evacuation of St. Domingo by the French, and having two French Generals, a great number of officers and £ 100,000 in dollars on board. The gun boats in motion yesterday were not those of Boulogne, but a division attempting to get into Boulogne. Though Admiral Cornwallis was driven from his station by the tempest, he received no damage. A Dutch vessel employed by Bonaparte to convey 700 stand of arms and stores from one port to another, is safe in the river Thames. During the late gale, five ships loaded with coal sunk near Scarborough. Some lives were lost. The season has been uncommonly open—the Robin is in song and the flowers in bloom.

January 27.

It is objected to the proposition to sink ships in the mouth of the harbour of Boulogne, that if vessels are sunk at high water, the enemy may remove the obstructions; and if at low water, the musquito fleet of the Corsican, may pass over them. The writer observes that "policy dictates not to do it. Is not the tyrant squandering millions to no purpose? Let the boats alone; they will do us no injury: if he had not these boats to amuse him, he would be employed in devising more injurious means to ruin our Commerce. This pigmy warfare of his must soon, and to his eternal shame end in disgrace."

The King, who has been lately indisposed by an attack of the rheumatism, is perfectly recovered. Advices from Portugal dated Jan. 7, state that Gen. Lasnes has had another quarrel with the Secretary of State, and that all is again in confusion.

January 28.

Accounts of an unfavorable nature have been recieved from Bombay. The Company's troops have had some very severe actions with the Mahrattas. After being twice repulsed with loss in attempting to storm a fortress in possession of the latter, they at last succeeded; but their success was purchased by the fall of several valuable officers and men. It is complained that the man thousand pounds worth of dollars lately issued to the banking houses for public use are not in circulation, That only now and then a straggling dollar is seen.

French Journals represent the equipping and completing the great fleet at Breft, as progressing incessantly night and day.

January 30.

Another storm equal in fury to any that preceded it, took place last Friday night, which prevented Admiral Cornwallis from resuming his station off Brest.

The Flushing squadron is ready to sail the the troops being embarked. A Russian army encamped close to the Prussian lines comprises ten thousand men admirably disciplined and appointed.

January 31.

The Queen Charlotte Packet, of 6 eighteen pounders carronades and two long four pounders with a very valuable cargo of Merchandize, in going from Leith to London beat off a French Privateer cutter brig of fourteen guns. On the the 8th January Admiral Verhul, put to sea with a division of gun boats, from Flushing, and returned the next day. About two hundred ships destined for the expedition, are collected at Ostend. Weather in the Channel still tempestuous.

February 1.

Three days since, the Hydra, and Tribune frigates, cruising off the French coast, descried a detachment of gun boats stealing along the shore, from La Hogue to Boulogne. They took four, three of which have arrived at Portsmouth. They are of the first class; had each fifty sailors and soldiers; they mount three 32 pounders. The imperial parliament is convened.

February 2.

By Hamburg mails, it is understood that gen. Regnier is gone to Toulon, where he is to take command of a corps of 10,000 men, who are to hold themselves in readiness to embark. Six ships of the line, four frigates some smaller ships of war, and a number of transports, lie there ready to sail, and are taking on board six months provisions! This preparation seems calculated for some other plan than the invasion of England!

Letters from Ceylon represent the English force in that island as in a desponding situation. From the effects of disease and the disaster of war, apprehensions are entertained for the safety of the settlement.

Alexandria Daily Advertiser.

TUESDAY, MARCH 20.

Extract of a letter from Washington, dated March 19.

I enclose you a copy of Mr. Wright's Bill for the removal of the Seat of Government to Baltimore.

I can now ascertain with perfect precission the fate of this bill; it is beyond conjecture, it is reduced to positive certainty, that it never will pass.

The small Western states such as Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio, coming to the aid of Baltimore in the collision of local interests among the Eastern and Southern states, might probably decide it in her favor at some time or other in the Senate.—But as the large states would be against that place, their weight of representation in the popular branch of the Legislature would determine it on the other side in the House of Representatives.

The large states of Virginia and North Carolina, will always feel themselves necessarily obliged from their geographical positions to resist the establishment of the seat of government at a more northern point than Washington, and the large states of Pennsylvania and New-York, will not advocate its removal to Baltimore as long as their respective metropolises are rival candidates for it themselves. These four states compose nearly one half of the whole Representatives of the lower House.

That it will not pass this session in the Senate is also perfectly certain. They have been debating it to-day, and have already progressed so far as to strike out Baltimore and insert Philadelphia, this will oblige the Honorable Mover himself to vote against it.

The resolution for retrocession to Maryland and Virginia, and the one which is projected for the concentration of the public buildings will neither of them pass. The report of the committee respecting the bridge has not yet been acted on.

N. B. Mr. Wright's bill is rejected 18 to 9.

On Saturday last, Mr. Wright presented to the Senate a bill for the removal of the public offices to and for the meeting of Congress at Baltimore, until the day of next.

On receiving the bill the Senate divided—Ayes 15—Noes 8.

It was then moved that the bill should be ordered to a second reading. Carried—Ayes 13, Noes 10.

The reader will observe that these questions are merely incidental, and do not, in the least, implicate a decision of the main question.

There is not the least reason to expect that this measure will receive the approbation of congress. It is much to be regretted that it has been introduced, as it is the tendency of all such propositions to injure, in some measure, the interests of the permanent seat of the government.

On Saturday last Mr. Dawson submitted two resolutions to the House of Representatives; the one for receding to Virginia that part of the district of Columbia ceded by that state to the U. States—the other, for receding to Maryland that part of the territory without the limits of the city of Washington ceded by that state to the United States; provided such recession be accepted by the two states.

On referring the resolutions to a committee of the whole, the House divided. Ayes 40—Noes 28. There not being a quorum a motion was made to adjourn, and lost—Ayes 31.

The question was then put on considering the resolutions. Ayes 36 Noes 32.

There being no quorum, the motion to adjourn was repeated and carried. Ayes 45——Noes 24.

The American ship Betsey, Melzar Joy, of Boston, from Amsterdam, with a cargo of gin and dry goods, was lost on the 24th November near Fort Blanc, to the eastward of Dunkirk. The captain has published the following account of this disastrous circumstance:—I the undersigned, master of the American ship Betsey, of Boston, burthen 189 tons, having a crew of 12 men, and 5 Dutch passengers, destined for Boston with a cargo of gin and silks, declare, that I left the Texel on the 17th November; and that, off Goree, I was boarded and detained for 24 hours by an English frigate, who after a strict examination permitted me to continue my voyage; that, yesterday finding myself close in with the banks, where my vessel struck several times, and was sinking, I formed the resolution of running her ashore."

MELZAR JOY.

In a Postscript to the British Neptune of the 13th February we find the subjoined article:

The public may place the fullest reliance on the authenticity of the following statement, which we have just been favoured with from the most unquestionable authority. Two Swiss officers, (brothers) in the French service, are just arrived from France having made their escape from thence. They have been examined before the Privy Council, & made a declaration that the invasion of this country will be attempted in the course of the present week, wind and weather permitting. (British Neptune.)

N. B. Prizes subjected to a deduction of fifteen per cent.

This lottery has been authorised by the legislature of Virginia, for the laudable purpose of erecting a seminary of learning in or near the metropolis of this state. With this view, it is contemplated to raise 20,000 dollars, and 2 500 dollars in addition, for defraying the expences attendant on drawing the lottery. Citizens of the first respectability have been selected as trustees, and they have pledged themselves to use their utmost exertions to carry it into effect. The scheme has the advantage of giving to each adventurer, a chance for some very large prizes, whilst the proportion of prizes to blanks, is so great as to invite the friends of the intended institution to partake of the lottery, with very little risk of their becoming losers. The treasurer of this state is to be appointed to receive the money for the tickets as they are sold, and to pay the amount of the prizes to the fortunate adventurers. It is believed that the above considerations will induce a rapid sale of tickets and the drawing will commence as soon as a sufficient number shall be sold to authorize it—which it it believed will be on the second Monday in December next.

In virtue of a Deed of Trust executed and bearing date on the 8th day of January, 1798, between Isaac Pollock of the first part, Wm. Deakins, jun. (since deceased) of the second part, and Jonah Thompson and Richard Veitch of the third part,

I, the subscriber, being the executor, devisee, and legal assignee of the said William Deakins, jun, deceased, for the purpose of executing the trusts in and by that deed declared, shall and will on Tuesday the 27th day of March next, if fair, if not the next fair day, at the tavern of John H. Barney, in George Town, expose at public sale, for Cash, to the highest bidder, that situated on Water street, in said town, on which the house at present occupied by Mr. Barney as a tavern stands, together with all the buildings and improvements on the same. Said lot fronting on Water street 62 feet, and running back 175 feet parallel with Cherry alley, and binding thereon—being part of that lot designated in the plan of Old George Town, by No. 49.

Also,

Another Lot on Keys street (being part of that lot designated by No. 77, in the plan of Old George Town,) comprehending a part of that wharf lately occupied as a lumber yard by Mr. George King.

Also,

A large and convenient two story Brick Dwelling House.

More particular information relative to the above valuable property may be had at any time previous to the day of sale, by application to Messrs. Thompson and Veitch, in Alexandria, John T. Mason, Esq. George town, or to the subscriber.
